

Here's to you

We could be out on the sea
Our hearts like ropes, tied to the shore
How we fear, we might never feel light anymore
We could rise into the sky
The barrier remains unscalable
Far too high, our tries are absurd jumps at ground level

Chorus:

Here's to ears, we cannot reach anymore
The words, that still are stuck in our throats
The songs we played, all a bit too late
And here's to the eyes, we cannot see anymore
The good-byes, we haven't said
When gravity pulled us on our knees,
To see how weak we'd be

We could con ourselves and run
Forward motion malfunctioning
We're too slow, the distance covered is next to nothing
We should bide our time and hide,
Patience should pay off in time.
When is it right, where's the signal lamp to stem the tide?

Chorus:

Here's to ears, we cannot reach anymore
The words, that still are stuck in our throats
The songs we played, all a bit too late
And here's to the eyes, we cannot see anymore
The good-byes, we haven't said
When gravity pulled us on our knees,
To see how weak we'd be

Stand face upwards
Be pride and joy
Come on, come on, we waited long, so long, time to be brave

We might as well let out a yell
Cry to our heart's content
Silence bonding us, time and time again

Chorus:

Here's to ears, we cannot reach anymore
The words, that still are stuck in our throats
The songs we played, all a bit too late
And here's to the eyes, we cannot see anymore
The good-byes, we haven't said
When gravity pulled us on our knees.
